

Ann McMullan

ESC Consultant Since: 2017

Education:

M.A., Education and School Administration,
Stephen F. Austin State University
B.S., Education, University of Texas at Austin

AREAS OF EXPERTISE: Change management, leadership coaching, performance management, board leadership, public speaking, presentations, professional development

EDUCATION EXPERIENCE: Ann worked for the Klein Independent School District in Texas for over three decades. She served as Executive Director for Educational Technology, responsible for leading a technological transformation in teaching and learning for the district's 50,000 students and over 6,000 employees. In this position Ann worked with more than 40 principals to assist them in leading change in instructional practices. Previously she was Associate Director and Instructional Officer for Professional Development Technology, working to establish a district-wide plan to integrate technology tools in all classrooms. She began her career with the district as a teacher of social studies to 7th and 8th grade students. During her career Ann also served as co-chair of the Texas Educational Technology Advisory Committee which developed and produced the Texas Long Range Plan for Technology, 2006-2020.

In addition, Ann writes on education topics for journals and newsletters, including edCircuit.com, eSchoolNews, EdNET Insight, Scholastic eduPulse, and CoSN. She is also a Senior Fellow with the Center for Digital Education. In September 2016, Ann co-authored and published Life Lessons in Leadership: The Way of the Wallaby. Ann was recently named Project Director for the National Nonprofit Consortium for School Networking's Empowered Superintendents Program.

NONPROFIT VOLUNTEER EXPERIENCE: Ann is a member of the Greater Los Angeles Region board of PowerMyLearning, a national organization that aims to empower students in low-income communities with education-based technology. She also serves on the Advisory Boards for two national organizations, Project Tomorrow and Girls Thinking Global.

EXAMPLES OF ESC CLIENTS: Antioch University Bridge Program, HEAR Center, Circle of Friends

INTERESTS: Current events and news, theater, music, art, public speaking, writing